EDITOR'S BOTTOMLINE

INDIA'S DISCUSS-UNTIL-DEATH CULTURE: The India I grew up in had one thing in common — we loved discussing things. This applied to most of India's problems as well. When I was growing up, I actually thought the job of grown-ups was to have meetings. Another classic problem to be discussed forever was Kashmir.

Committees, panels, commissions, conferences, symposiums, seminars, conventions, forums and retreats were held year after year. People made careers being Kashmir experts. That expertise, however, was limited to discussing the Kashmir issue, which to their credit, they did rather well. However, 'solving' the problem was never on their agenda. They received praise on their beautiful analysis, language and sensitivity to the issue. Where was the incentive to actually solve anything?

All this against the backdrop of a DUD (discuss-until-death) Indian culture, it became normal to never solve the Kashmir issue. Whenever someone suggested a solution (removing Article 370 for instance), they were attacked as naïve and dumb or even biased. Politics kept the issue alive, making a solution even harder.

India's DUD culture would be amusing but for the costs we had to bear. This bill to pontificate and do nothing on Kashmir has been massive. Kashmir has bled, and we lost tens of thousands of innocent lives over the last 70 years. The second big loss has been the money. One can conservatively assume that a quarter of India's defence budget is because of the Kashmir problem. Go back the last 70 years, compound the money at current rates and see what a massive amount we spent on this. We could have used this money for development, not just in Kashmir, but around the country. There are several other costs. These include the loss of GDP the State could have created or the fear that was instilled in people due to terrorism.

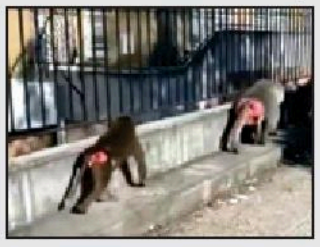
Male baboon escapes with 'two wives' before vasectomy



Sydney: A male baboon and his 'two wives' ran wild in Australia on Tuesday after escaping from a medical facility where he was set to undergo a vasectomy, a health official said. The trio got loose while being transported to the Royal Prince Alfred Hospital in Sydney and toured the parking lot, where surprised bystanders recorded the encounter on video.

New South Wales Police said the Baboons "were going bananas," before adding that Police and wildlife officials had the situation under control and there was no immediate danger to the public. NSW Health Minister Brad Hazzard said "They don't want him to continue breeding with the small troupe he's in, so in order for him to stay the decision was taken that he should have a vasectomy. The two females were there just to keep him calm."

Ousted Police Chief walks home in underwear

New Hampshire: A New Hampshire police chief stripped down to his underwear and walked into a snowstorm after being stripped of his duties at a local board meeting Tuesday night. Richard Lee was the police chief for nearly 20 years until a three-member selectboard voted to rely solely on coverage from the New Hampshire State Police during the meeting. He worked part-time as the only member of the department -- which covers the town of Croydon's roughly 700 residents. "I gave them my uniform shirt. I gave them my turtleneck, I gave them my ballistic vest. ... I sat down in the chair, took off my boots, took off my pants, put those in the chair, and put my boots back on, and walked out the door," Lee said.

He didn't have spare clothes or a ride home, so Lee walked nearly a mile in 26-degree temperatures before his wife picked him up.

Building materials, watchman shed on road causing inconvenience

Sir,

With a lot of developmental activities and construction of new buildings in Manasinagar near Bannur Ring Road, we are facing inconvenience as people are drilling borewells during night beyond 10 pm disrupting our sleep and are constructing watchman shed, dumping building materials and mixing concrete on the roads leaving no space for the vehicles to move.

If we request the labourers to give space for the vehicles, they ask us to talk to the contractor and the contractor will ask to talk to the owner. But talking to either of them is not fruitful as they have turned into arguments. There are more or less 10-15 construction works going on in our area.

We request the authorities concerned to take immediate action as we are facing inconvenience on everyday basis.

Man arrested for coaxing teenager to cut off genitals

Srirangapatna, Mar. 1 (Vinay Karekura&KS)- In a twist to the story of a teenager, who had claimed that his genitals were mutilated by unknown miscreants who had taken him in their car in the pretext of dropping him on Feb.14, Srirangapatna Rural Police have arrested a 28-year-old man for coaxing the teenager to cut off his (teenager) genitals.

The accused is Sunil Kumar alias Sunni alias Guddappa, a resident of Seethapur village in Pandavapura taluk. Cases have been registered for attempt to murder and under POCSO Act against the accused.

According to the Police, the accused had coaxed the 17-year-old teenager to cut off his genitals so that his (teenager) parents would not get him married.

Details: On Feb.14, the boy was waiting for a bus at Aralaguppe Bus Stand to go to his college when three miscreants, who came in a car, offered to give the boy a lift to his School and took him in the car.

According to the complaint lodged at Srirangapatna Rural Police Station, the teenager had stated that the miscreants took him on Haravu Yelekere village road, dragged him into a nearby field and attempted to chop off his genitals with a knife, thus mutilating his organ, left him at the spot and fled away.

The seriously injured boy was rushed to Pandavapura Government Hospital, where he was given first-aid and was later shifted to a private hospital in Mysuru for further treatment. Superintendent of Police (SP) Parashuram and ASP Dr. Shobharani, who took the matter seriously, had formed a team consisting of Srirangapatna Dy.SP Arun Nagegowda, Circle Inspector Krishnappa and Sub-Inspector Girish to investigate the case.

The Police team then visited the hospital, where the teenager is undergoing treatment and conducted an enquiry and based on the information provided by the teenager, the Police arrested Sunil Kumar.

According to the Police, the accused had befriended the teenager through a phone call about one-and-a-half year ago and the duo used to meet frequently. The accused used to sexually exploit the teenager and sensing that he would miss the teenager, if his (teenager) parents get him married, the accused coaxed the teenager to chop off his (teenager) genitals.

On Feb. 14, accused Sunil Kumar, who took the teenager in a car threatened him that he (accused) would get possessed by God and if he (teenager) does not listen to him, he would be cursed. The accused told the teenager that he was in love with him, be with him always, never get married and in order to not allow his (teenager) parents to search for an alliance for him, he convinced the teenager to chop off his genitals, the Police said and added that the accused also told the teenager that nothing would happen to him if he (teenager) cut off his genitals and the wound would be healed in a few days.

The accused then gave a knife to the teenager and made him to cut off his genitals and the teenager had told his father what the accused had told him to say that he was kidnapped by miscreants, who chopped off his genitals.

Srirangapatna Rural Police, who arrested accused Sunil Kumar on Feb. 28, produced him before a Court, which remanded him to judicial custody.

Sub-Inspector Girish and staff K. Srinivasamurthy, H.B. Ravikumar Swamy, S.S. Chandrashekar, D. Mallikarjun, M.R. Sridhar, S. Raveesh and Bhargava, took part in the operation.

Karur Vysya Bank penalised for service lapses

Mysuru, Mar.1- The Mysuru District Consumer Redressal Forum has penalised Karur Vysya Bank, Shivarampet Branch in city for lapses in providing service at the bank.

Firdous Malik, a resident of Irwin Road, had availed a loan of Rs. 8.5 lakh from Karur Vysya Bank in Shivarampet on May.10, 2012 for purchase of a house by pledging his house documents. He had also availed another loan by pledging 887.700 grams gold jewellery.

But as he was unable to clear the loan, Firdous wrote to the Bank authorities on Oct.20, 2016 asking the Bank to auction the pledged gold ornaments and adjust the amount for clearing both the loans that he had availed. He had also asked the Bank to return him whatever money that remains after loan clearance adjustment. But the Bank authorities, without any prior intimation to Firdous, auctioned his pledged gold jewellery and even did not bother to inform him about the amount of money got by the auction.

Later, Firdous filed a petition with the Mysuru District Consumer Redressal Forum seeking return of Rs,2,58,226 that was in excess of loan clearance amount and Rs.1 lakh as compensation for service lapse and Rs. 5,000 as expenses, from Karur Vysya Bank.

The Consumer Forum which heard the petition, found Karur Vysya Bank at fault for service and ordered the Bank to return the pledged house documents to Firdous. The Forum also directed the Bank to get the house registered in Firdous's name within 45 days of the order and to pay a penalty of Rs.100 per day if the Bank defaulted on it's order.

The Redressal Forum passed an order directing the Bank to return Rs. 2,58,226 due to Firdous along with an annual interest of 10 percent and also to pay Firdous Rs,35,000 as case expenses, within 45 days.

The Forum also asked the Bank to pay an annual interest of 10 percent on the awarded amount, if it defaulted on payment to Firdous. Senior Advocated K. Eshwar Bhat argued for Firdous Malik.

Maintaining that an effective communication mechanism has enabled great epics like the Ramayana and Mahabharata to reach even those who have not read the epics, Sulibele explained how an effective communication media can present the real facts and educate the people on issues. He wished that the Radio Station reaches out to all sections of the society.

University of Mysore (UoM) Vice-Chancellor Prof. G. Pink blooms against blue sky

Gliricidia Sepium, locally called Gobbarada Gida canvasses dry Chamundi Hill

By M.T. Yogesh Kumar

Even as the Chamundi Hill forests are now presenting a dull picture with dried up trees, shrubs and plants, pink flowers have started to bloom in full in the forests, much to the delight of visitors and tourists.

Just when the Chamundi Hill seemed to have lost life with vanishing of greenery due to hot sun, pink flowers in bunches have started blooming all across the forest. The plant which is known by its Botanical name Gliricidia Sepium, is also popularly known as a manure plant locally. This plant has naturally grown aplenty in Lalithadripura, Tavarekatte and Uttanahalli surroundings and bunches of pink flowers is a feast to the eyes. They look as if someone has dipped the whole surroundings in pink colour. These flowers apart from covering stretches create a cool atmosphere in the surroundings.

The plant, Gliricidia Sepium, locally known as Manure plant (Gobbarada gida) has its origins in Mexico and South American countries. This plant grows upto a height of 10 to 12 metres and plays a vital role in maintaining soil fertility.

The plant is rich in protein and as such the leaves of this plant are often used as manure in farming. Due to its farm use, the plant is generally grown along farm edges. Due to its nutrient rich qualities, the tree leaves are fed to cattle and sheep. This multi-useful plant is very helpful to farming community.

The bark is smooth, and its colour can range from a whitish grey to deep red-brown. The flowers are located on the end of branches that have no leaves.

These flowers have a bright pink to lilac colour that is tinged with white. A pale yellow spot is usually at the flower's base. Gliricidia is also known as nitrogen fixer, thereby improving the quality of soil. It is for this reason, both Forest and Agriculture Departments are promoting cultivation of this plant species in dry areas, which can be propagated by both seeds and cuttings.

This plant has a rare quality of growing fast by itself. The Forest Department, realising the multiple uses of the plant, is promoting the cultivation of the plant in social forestry schemes. The Department is cultivating the plant in hilly terrains, barren lands and other waste lands where other plants have failed.

The plant is grown either by sowing the seed or planting a sapling. As the plant grows, the leaves helps in enriching soil fertility. This is one of the best plants used for traditional live fencing to protect agriculture and fruit-bearing plantations from animals such as goats, cow and buffalo.

Even as Chamundi Hill forest is blooming with pink flowers, the city too seems to be fast catching up as rare pink flowers are blossoming from Honge trees. Generally Honge trees give rise to white flowers. But the pink flowers this time at some locations has left the citizens delightfully dismayed.

Mysuru DCF Dr. K.C. Prashanth Kumar said that the manure plant, botanically known as Gliricidia Sepium has blossomed pink flowers. These plants do not grow that tall. The leaves of this plant have proved to be good natural manure, he said.

This plant also has the special quality of fertilising the soil in its surroundings. The tree branches are also used to feed cattle and sheep. The plant, with all its natural characteristics, is very much bio-friendly and is a boon to the farming community for its multiple utilities, he added.

Resembles the famed Neelkurunjis

At the outset, this plant (Gliricidia Sepium) is almost similar in physical appearance to Neelkurunji plants grown in hilly regions of Chikkamagalur, Ooty, Mettupalayam, Coonoor etc. Twelve years after cultivation, Neelkurunji plants unveil a flower-scape. The Neelkurunji flowers grown in the hilly surroundings of Ooty last year was a star attraction for visitors for four long months. The blue-coloured flowers seen all around Ooty attracted a large number of tourists too. Will the Pink flowers beckon tourists to Mysuru?

Pink ganagale in city markets

Pink flowers called ganagale brought from Salem are sold at city markets for Rs. 120 a kg. These flowers also resemble Gliricidia Sepium.*

Economic Census begins

For the first time, the entire Census is being conducted on a digital platform — under Digital India — by the use of an application which will ensure high accuracy and data security. A mobile app has been released for the same for the first time in Mysuru.

Officials said that none of the shops will be skipped by the enumerators and all that citizens have to do is verify the identity of the person coming to their home or office for the Census and provide them information about the economic activities being conducted in the house or the establishment.

The Census is aimed at getting current economic activity, employment and self-employment, kind of employment or businesses being carried out by the individuals and such others which will be analysed to get the exact picture of the economic development in the City, District, State and Country.

Under the survey, enumerators will collect data about profession, industry (small scale, large, medium and home-based) business, real estate land income, agriculture, trade and commerce, buying and selling distribution and all other source of income. Data will be collected from both urban and rural areas and from organised and unorganised sectors.

The Economic Census is crucial for framing of policies and planning for the Government and other organisations. It will provide disaggregated information on various operational and structural aspects of all establishments in the country. The Census will provide valuable insights into geographical spread and clusters of economic activities, ownership pattern and persons engaged of the establishments.

Apart from collecting economic data, the enumerators are clearing misconception that the Census is linked to CAA, NRC or NPR. The Census is being conducted block-wise and each block will have 66 investigator units and each unit will have nearly 400 households and 2,000 people.

Based on the list submitted by the SP, the DC issued notices to rowdies asking them to appear before the DC, who is also the District Magistrate who has the powers to extern the rowdies. Yesterday, DC Venkatesh had summoned the rowdies, including Shiva alias 'Danger' Shiva, to his office and were asked why they should not be externed (banished) from the district.

These rowdies have been cornered by the Police for creating fear in the minds of residents by threatening and through their illegal acts and based on the feedback given by people, media and well-known persons in the society, cases were booked and the externment list was prepared, said the Police.

DC Venkatesh said that the externment duration depends on the gravity of the crime and the duration of banishment will extend from three months to one year. They will be given a chance to reform, he added. After the DC enquired every rowdy, their relatives and advocates gave an undertaking to the DC that they will not indulge in such activities. The DC's hearing was video recorded as evidence.

"We have asked the rowdies to provide surety from one Gazetted Officer. Only those who provide a Gazetted Officer surety will be given a chance to reside in Mandya and the rest will be banished," Venkatesh said.

"Several people were a threat to peace and with their illegal activities, they were disturbing the society. Each case has been examined in detail and they have been asked to bring a Gazetted Officer as surety. District revenue officers and the Police have been asked to keep a watch over rowdy activities and report such people to higher-ups so that peace can be maintained," Venkatesh said.

Imaginative stories have no place in Science: Writer

Mysuru, Mar.1 (PM&DM)- Maintaining that imaginative stories have no place in science, renowned Writer and Speaker Dr.G. Ramakrishna said that Science Literature would not remain true to its meaning if imaginative stories creep in.

Distributors stage protest

demanding ban on online trading

Mysuru, Mar. 1- Hundreds of distributors, wholesalers and retailers of Fast Moving Consumer Goods (FMCG) and members of Mysuru Chemists and Druggists Association, under the aegis of Mysuru District Distributors' Association, took out a massive rally in the city on Friday demanding a ban on online trading and setting up of a Trade Board at the national level.

The rally, which commenced from Kote Anjaneyaswamy Temple at the Palace North Gate, passed through Gandhi Square, Sayyaji Rao Road, Shivarampet, D. Devaraj Urs Road, JLB Road and Field Marshal K.M. Cariappa Circle (Metropole Circle), before reaching the Deputy Commissioner's Office, where a memorandum was presented seeking a ban on online trading and a uniform pricing policy across the country.

Alleging that e-commerce companies and Hypermarket chains are luring not just customers with heavy discounts on a variety of Fast Moving Consumer Goods and other items of daily use, but also retailers with huge cuts, the protesters demanded constitution of a Trade Board at the national level to regulate discounts and pricing.

Seeking a uniform pricing policy across the country, like 'One Nation One Tax,' they claimed that the livelihood of more than 10 crore families are threatened by online and e-commerce giants, which are out to grab their business by offering huge discounts to customers.

The distributors want an end to unhealthy and unethical business practices by online and e-commerce companies and to safeguard traditional business by setting up of a National Level Trade Board.

Mysuru District Distributors' Association President A.S. Chethan, Vice-President B.K. Satish, Secretary Manoj R. Kotian, Joint Director Isha Kumar, office-bearers G.S. Ganesh Rao, M. Sripathi and others were present.

Special vehicle to ferry children through Forest

Minister Suresh Kumar fulfils his promise

Mysuru, Mar. 1 (Soma& SD)- Primary Education Minister Suresh Kumar has fulfilled most of the assurances that he had given to Pachche Doddi villagers during his School stay programme last month.

It may be recalled that, during one of his overnight village school stay programmes, Primary and Secondary Education Minister S. Suresh Kumar had stayed at Pachche Doddi Government Primary School on Feb. 10. The School is located at Chamarajanagar district and is on the fringes of forest. The village comes under Male Mahadeshwara Wildlife Sanctuary.

While Pachche Doddi village has no basic facilities, children who are studying in 6th to 10th standards have to walk 10 kms to reach their School amidst thick jungle and fear of wild animals. This issue was brought to the notice of the Minister who had assured that he will get a vehicle sanctioned soon to ferry these children to School.

In this backdrop, Male Mahadeshwara Hill Wildlife Sanctuary DCF V. Yedukondalu has now arranged a temporary vehicle to ferry the children to School every day at 7 am and back to the village at 4.30 pm and 5.30 pm. This transport arrangement started functioning from Feb. 27.

DCF Yedukondalu has also assured that Forest Department will be providing a 16-seater jeep to transport the children to School from next month.

Pachche Doddi village is over 15 kms from Hanur town in Chamarajanagar. The villagers had complained that their village lacks proper road connectivity and the only link road between their village and Kanchalli village is not asphalted. Now, the link road between the Pachche Doddi and Kanchalli village is being repaired and renovated.

In addition, the villagers had requested to sanction a ration shop in their village, as the present ration shop was miles away. Moved by their plight, Department of Food Supplies and Consumer Affairs has now issued an order to set up ration shops in both Pachche Doddi and Kanchalli villages.

Minister Suresh Kumar has also instructed the officials to take up all necessary measures and carry out development works for the benefit of the villagers who are living on the fringes of forest in the future. He has also thanked the officials for responding quickly to address the concerns raised by the villagers during his School stay last month.

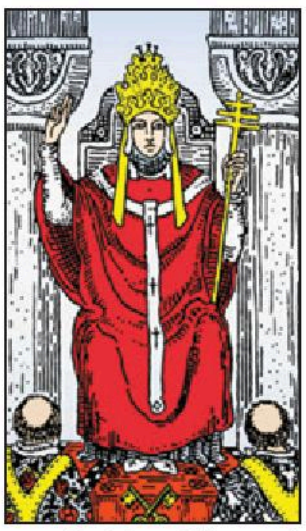
WORD OF THE DAY

Hierophant



Pronunciation: Hai·ruh·fant
Meaning & Origin: Hierophant is a person who brings religious congregants into the presence of that which is deemed holy. The word comes from ancient Greece, where it was constructed from the combination of ta hiera, "the holy", and phainein, "to show.
The Hierophant (V), in some decks named The Pope, is the fifth trump or Major Arcana card in most traditional Tarot decks. It is used in game playing as well as in divination. The Hierophant is seen seated on a throne between two pillars symbolising law and liberty or obedience and disobedience. He wears a triple crown, and the keys to heaven are at his feet. Hierophant stands for tradition and convention. It can represent marriage in an arranged setup. It can also mean a teacher or counsellor who will help in learning / education of the querent.

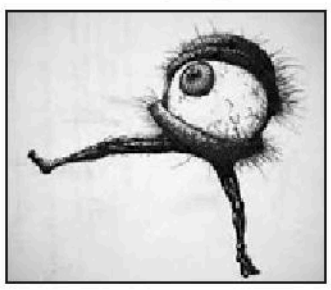
PHRASE OF THE DAY

The hairy eyeball



Meaning: A glance made with partially lowered eyelashes. This usually indicates suspicion or hostility but may signal other emotions too.
Origin & Example: The American-English phrase denotes an intent look. It is said to refer to the fact that when the eyes are narrowed, the eyeballs are 'hairy' from the near meeting of the eyelashes. The earliest known printed record of it is from The Galveston Daily News, November 1961, in a piece that reports on an interview with Carol Burnett:
'With her [Burnett's sister] everything is boys-boys-boys. She's really educated me. She was telling me about a boy looking at her and she said, "He gave me the hairy eyeball." That meant he liked her.'
